Project Eligibility - Projects completed between January 1, 2025 and December 31, 2026 are eligible for entry. Projects must have either enrolled in Efficiency Vermont's Residential New Construction (RNC) program or been built/designed by an Efficiency Excellence Network (EEN) member builder or architect.

Efficiency Vermont has technical project information (R-values, U-factor, air leakage, HVAC efficiency, etc.) on file if the project was enrolled in our RNC program and will use it to judge your entry. If a project was not enrolled in our RNC program but built by an EEN member builder or architect, please include a Home Energy Rating Certificate (HERC) if available or include detailed energy efficiency/technical details of the home in the Project Description (R-values for foundation, above grade walls and roof, window U-factors, blower door results/air tightness, heating, cooling and ventilation efficiency and specifications, water heating and conservation measures and any other energy efficiency features in your project description.

All Entries- Please attach a 1-2 page project description and photos (at least 1 interior and 1 exterior but more is always helpful) to provide additional information above and beyond technical specifications. These may include healthy home features (materials and finishes), home siting, renewable energy, material selection, innovative design features, customer feedback, other non-energy or comfort features, etc. Please also include project costs not including land, site work, or renewables.
